

Friedensau Adventist University (Theologische Hochschule Friedensau) is a state-recognized institution of higher learning of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. It has a School of Theology and a School of Christian Social Science.

The School of Christian Social Sciences is seeking to fill the position of a starting October 2017. The successful candidate will chair the MA in Counseling program and teach in relevant areas of other degree programs of the department. In addition the position entails close cooperation with Practical Theology in the School of Theology.

Professor in Counseling and Pastoral Care

We expect a person with strong research interests and substantial teaching experience in the area of counseling. Whereas the university is internationally oriented excellent knowledge of German and English (oral and written) are a prerequisite, teaching experience in both German and English are desirable. The professional expertise should be demonstrated by active memberships in and networking with appropriate professional associations and organizations.

In addition to teaching and research, experience in acquiring exterior funding is desirable. We also expect willingness to be involved in academic committees and in managing and further developing course offerings.

The prerequisites for admission are mandated by HSG LSA § 35 (1) and (2), no. 1–4a and (3). They include a doctorate and a habilitation or equivalent. The intended connection with the School of Theology requires an active Christian faith. Membership in the Seventh-day Adventist Church is desirable. Remuneration will be in accordance with financial policies of the university. Full time faculty members are expected to take residence in the vicinity of the campus.

Further inquiries about this position can be directed towards the Dean of the Department, Prof. Dr. Thomas Spiegler (thomas.spiegler@thh-friedensau.de).

Applications with complete CV including teaching experience should be directed in digital form only to the Office of the Rector of Friedensau Adventist University attn. of Michelle Koch by 15th April 2017.
